

Enliten is a team of video, media and technology experts who collectively and effectively work toward solving our clients' day-to-day and long-term challenges

Enliten Associate

Glenn Fishering, Television Production & Display Systems

Glenn has more than 20 years of professional experience in video production and visual communications, as: executive producer, director, creative and technical producer, project manager and consultant and design engineer. Glenn heads up Enliten's video/media facilities and systems design, implementation and assessment services.

Glenn is the President of Midwest Production Group (MPG) offering field and studio production, film production, and post-production services to enterprise companies and organizations. Glenn designs corporate production facilities, and mobile production units, which serve the broadcast and cable television networks as well as corporate special event videoconferences.

Glenn produces a number of series of interactive educational and informational DVD's for national distribution. Also, he is executive producer of a nationally distributed sports-related program series.

Prior to founding MPG, Glenn held positions in production management with The Seven Up Company and Anheuser-Busch. Glenn is the recipient of numerous awards for his producing and production services. He holds an A.A. in Mass Communications and attended Webster University. Glenn is a contributor to Enliten's Delivery of Media in the Enterprise - Considerations and Perspectives for the Media Communicator.

For more extensive bios and/or other information, please contact an Enliten representative at (770) 590-1590 or enliten@enliten.net.